Lesson 105

Jonah's Mission

Jonah, chapters 1 to 4

Memory Verse

“Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from His fierce anger, that we perish not?”

—Jonah 3:9

The Ninevites Repent

After the whale vomited out Jonah, and the Lord repeated his commission, Jonah obediently headed to Nineveh. Jonah must have been filled with admiration and revulsion when he entered the city. What a huge city! What a dreadfully wicked city! As Jonah walked through the busy streets and into crowded markets, he began to cry out, “Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.” Everywhere, startled people stopped, stared, and were suddenly struck with a strange fear. As Jonah continued on, repeating his frightening message, the Ninevites keenly felt that the message of this strange prophet was no idle threat, but a message from an angry God about to destroy them for their sins. When the Assyrian king heard the message, he too was seized with fear, and commanded, “Let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God: yea, let him turn everyone from his evil way...Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from His fierce anger, that we perish not” (Jonah 3:8, 9).

The Ninevites realized a little about God's justice and sovereignty. Their repentance could not make up for their sins. But, who can tell! And indeed, after forty days, the Ninevites whose repentance had been in truth must have wept with gratitude and love when they realized that “God repented of the evil he had said he would do unto them, and he did it not” (Jonah 3:10).

God Teaches Jonah

Jonah was shocked at the effect of his preaching. He was also horrified! “It displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was very angry.” He cried out, “Therefore I fled before unto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil” (Jonah 4:2). Yes, Jonah knew this from experience. God had spared him from a dreadful drowning death. But these vile Ninevites? Oh, why could this not be the fruit of his preaching among his own people? How could he ever face them again? They would slander him, perhaps even call him a lying prophet whose words did not come to pass (Deut. 18:22). And what about God's covenant? Was it not with Abraham and his seed? How could the Ninevites have any part in this? Jonah was so perplexed and angry, he even wished he was dead.

As Jonah left the city, he suddenly had a hopeful thought. Probably the repentance of these Ninevites would be very short-lived, and the Lord would still destroy the city! With this thought in mind, Jonah went a safe distance from the city and found a spot where he had a good view. He made himself a booth for some shade, and sat down to see what would become of the city. The next morning Jonah was surprised to find that a tall gourd with very large leaves had grown overnight, and was shading him completely! Jonah was now quite comfortable. He was “exceeding glad” (Jonah 4:6). The very next morning however, Jonah woke up to find dead leaves all around him. A worm had killed the gourd! That day was extremely hot, so that Jonah “fainted, and wished in himself to die.” Suddenly the Lord asked Jonah, “doest thou well to be angry for the gourd?” “I do well to be angry, even unto death,” Jonah replied.

Thankfully the Lord did not leave Jonah there to die in his bitterness. The Lord showed Jonah his extreme foolishness: having pity on a gourd, but wishing destruction upon so many precious souls, including little children—“Six score thousand persons that cannot discern between their right hand and their left-hand; and also much cattle” (Jonah 4:11). Just like the self-righteous Pharisees in the days of the Lord Jesus, and the elder son in the parable of the prodigal son, Jonah fought against the idea of free grace, until God showed him how much he needed it himself! Only then could he understand that “Joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance” (Luke 15:7).
