Lesson 53

Israel's First King

The First Book of Samuel, chapters 7 through 10

Memory Verse

“And Samuel said, Gather all Israel unto Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the Lord.”

1 Samuel 7:5

Brief History

While the ark of God remained in the land of the Philistines, there were some in Israel who mourned its loss. They longed for the day in which it would be returned. After 20 years, they were gathered at Mizpeh, and desired that Samuel would pray with them that God's favor would come upon them again. God heard their prayers. The Philistines were defeated, and Samuel set up a stone of remembrance and called it Ebenezer. Hitherto the Lord hath helped us.

Samuel had two sons named Hopni and Phinehas who were judges in Israel. The elders of Israel complained that they were not good judges and asked Samuel to give Israel a king. Samuel agreed but warned that the king would be a curse to them. The establishment of Israel as a kingdom was an important step in the nation's history. They were called to be a theocratic kingdom which means a nation ruled by God's laws. But Israel, including many of her kings, rebelled against God's laws and made them worthy of condemnation. Clearly, they needed a new king, a king of righteousness, who would come to bring repentance and the forgiveness of sin. That king was none other than the Lord Jesus Christ.

The first king of Israel was Saul. He was a remarkable man, one well favored in appearance. The Lord caused an unusual providential meeting to take place in which Samuel met Saul for the first time.

While Saul was looking for the lost asses of his father, he met Samuel who anointed him king. Saul was given another spirit—a certain ability which he needed to be a king. But he did not receive a new heart. He did many things that were helpful for Israel, but he was not a God-fearing man.

The Gospel in the Old Testament

The establishment of Israel as a kingdom was an important step in the nation's history. They were called to be a theocratic kingdom which means a nation ruled by God's laws. But Israel, including many of her kings, rebelled against God's laws and made them worthy of condemnation. Clearly, they needed a new king, a king of righteousness, who would come to bring repentance and the forgiveness of sin. That king was none other than the Lord Jesus Christ.
