Phinehas: Turning Away God's Wrath

Numbers 22–31

Memory Verse

“Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, hath turned my wrath away from the children of Israel, while he was zealous for my sake among them, that I consumed not the children of Israel in my jealousy.”

Numbers 25:11

Balak and Balaam

Balak was the king of the Moabites, when Israel arrived at the Jordan Valley, after forty years in the wilderness. Seeing how the Israelites had defeated the Amorites, Balak was filled with fear. Would Israel defeat his people too? Balak devised a plan to defeat the Israelites. He hired a false prophet to pronounce a curse upon Israel (Numbers 22:1–7). He believed that if he could get the false prophet to curse the Israelites in the name of their own God, then God would leave them, and he would defeat them in battle.

Balaam was the false prophet that Balak hired to curse Israel. However, Balaam received a warning from the Lord that he should not do what the king of Moab asked. Sadly, Balaam did not listen to the words of the Lord, for he desired the honor and riches that the king of Moab offered.

Joyously, the plans of men cannot ruin God's plan for his people. Although Balaam was hired to curse the Israelites, he could only pronounce a blessing. How encouraging to consider that God's plan for his people cannot be stopped. Though men and the kings of men set their hearts against the people of God, though they seek to stop the expansion of his kingdom, they cannot, for, they are weak, but he is strong.

Called to be Separate

When God calls a person, He calls a person to be separate from the world. The world sets its heart upon the riches and treasures in this life. Christians are called to set their heart upon the things above and not the things below. The Christian does not look for a city to call home here below, but looks “for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God.” (Hebrews 11:10). A place built by “God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens” (2 Corinthians 5:1). Sadly, despite the many blessings and admonitions, the Israelites sought to be one with the world. Their eyes were turned from the land of Canaan—the land of promise, and appeared to find contentment in Shittim.

In Numbers 25, while dwelling in Shittim, the Israelites went after the daughters of Moab. In doing so, they departed from the God of Israel, the God that delivered them, directed them, provided for them, spared them, and admonished them. Following after the daughters of Moab, many Israelites began to offer sacrifice and prayer to the false gods. Balak's plotting could not cause God's wrath to be kindled against his people. Only the sins of his people could do that.

Phinehas

The sin of Israel was great. God's anger was kindled. Trying to appease the wrath of God, the leaders of the rebellion were hung from trees. Yet God's anger was not turned away. Many of the people mourned because of the sins being committed.

Finally, while others were mourning for the sin that was committed, one of the "children of Israel" brought a Midianitish woman "in the sight of Moses, and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, who were weeping before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation" (Numbers 25:6). This man had no shame. He committed his sin before the mourning children of Israel, before the Lord's tabernacle. That is, he took a defiant stand against God.

Phinehas, son of Eleazar, having an eye upon the righteousness of God, could not allow such blasphemy to take place. He arose and slew the man and the Midianitish woman. Phinehas's love for the honor and glory of God turned away the wrath of God. In so doing, God gave unto Phinehas his "covenant of peace," established with him "the covenant of an everlasting priesthood; because he was zealous for his God, and made an atonement for the children of Israel" (Numbers 25:12–13). Do we not see in Phinehas a type of the Lord Jesus Christ, who:

- is the head of a better covenant;
- will make atonement for all his people, turning away the wrath of God by satisfying the just demands of the law;
- desires to glorify the Father;
- is a Priest forever.

Discussions

1. In Numbers 23:19–24, Balaam is given the following words to speak to Balak. “God is not a man, that he should lie; neither the son of man, that he should repent: hath he said and shall he not do it? Or hath he spoken, and shall he not make it good?” Discuss how these words are a comfort to the children of God and frustrating to the enemies of God. Consider the words in regard to God’s promise of salvation in Christ, by faith.
