1 Kings 18:37

Historical Summary

The kingdom has now been divided into two kingdoms, Judah and Israel. One kingdom called “Judah” and was made up of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin, who stayed with King Rehoboam. The other ten tribes were called “Israel,” and they all followed Jeroboam. Sadly, there was war between these two kingdoms during all the days of these leaders. This was a result of the sin of these leaders and their people. Even Rehoboam allowed idols to be worshipped in Judah, and this sin was repeated by his son Abijah.

Happily, Abijah’s son Asa called the people of Judah back to serving and obeying God again. During Asa’s reign, a very large army from Ethiopia invaded the land and threatened to overthrow the kingdom of Judah. This caused Asa to cry unto God for help. The Lord heard him and struck the Ethiopian army with fear, and they were completely driven out of Canaan. Asa took many spoils of war from them.

Meanwhile, Jeroboam’s successors all followed his wicked example in leading Israel in the sin of idolatry. Nadab, Baasha, Elah, Zimri and Omri, one after another, were all wicked kings of Israel. The Lord sent the prophet Jehu to prophesy against the kings of Israel, to warn them of their wickedness. But they would not obey, and tragedy followed. Baasha conspired against Nadab and killed him. Later, Elah was killed by Zimri. Zimri reigned only seven days before he was killed by Omri. Omri was more wicked than all the kings before him. When Omri died, his son Ahab ascended to the throne of Israel.

The days of Ahab were very sad days for Israel. Not only was Ahab wicked himself, he also married a wicked woman named Jezebel, who was the daughter of a pagan king. Through her, Baal worship was introduced in Israel. Ahab even had an altar and a house built for Baal in the land of Samaria. It was also during Ahab's reign that Jericho was rebuilt—a city that God had warned should not be rebuilt.

God's judgement came upon Israel because of their sin. He sent the prophet Elijah to tell Ahab that a famine would come upon the land which would be very severe. This made Ahab very angry, and he wanted to kill Elijah. But Elijah fled, and he went to live near a brook where the Lord sent ravens to feed him with meat every morning. And when the brook dried up, a widow woman of Zarephath cared for him from a barrel of meal and a jar of oil that could not be used up. During his stay there, the widow woman's son died. But God used Elijah to raise him up again, and he lived.

After many days of famine, God told Elijah to return to Ahab with a message that He would send rain again in the land. But before it rained, Elijah made it clear who is the real and true God. He called all Israel to Mount Carmel, and called the 450 prophets of Baal and 400 prophets of the groves to come there to make an offering to Baal. Elijah challenged them that he would build an altar there also before the LORD God, and they would both offer sacrifices and call on their god. The god that answered by sending down fire on the offering would be the real God. Baal's prophets tried and tried all day, but could not bring down fire. Elijah even poured large amounts of water on his offering to make it harder, and God sent fire from heaven to consume the sacrifice, the altar, and dried up all the water around it. It was very clear to everyone who the real God was! All the people fell on their faces and cried out, "The LORD, he is the God!" Elijah then killed all the prophets of Baal. Soon after, God sent rain again upon Israel.

The Gospel in the Old Testament

The kings of Israel and Judah had a very important task. It was their responsibility to rule the people in the fear of God. They were supposed to guide the people according to God's law and to be an example to the nations around them. Sadly, many of the kings failed miserably in their duties. Many lived openly in sin and they led the people in sin also. But the godly people in Israel and Judah longed for a king who would lead in the way of righteousness. It was not until Jesus Christ came that this longing was fulfilled. But sometimes they could see a type of him in Judah's good kings. Today too the godly people desire a King of Righteousness to reign in their wicked hearts. That King is none other than the Lord Jesus Christ. May his kingdom come in many places and in many hearts today.
